Spanish for kids app

Even Harvard is on board when it comes to children learning languages, determined by a longitudinal study that language learning has helped them be more creative, more flexible, and better engaged in problem solving. Children who learned multiple languages also scored higher on group tests, compared to those who did not. In fact, the pre-adolescent brain has an easier time learning pronunciation and learning new sounds, so don't wait; give your child an advantage by testing the following 10 language learning apps for kids. You don't have to tell them that you're setting them up for life, but maybe they'll thank you for it, some day.

1. Stories By Gus On The Go Stories by Gus on the Go is the second part of the highly rated language learning app series. In the app, kids can play their way through games and lessons based on timeless stories like Goldilocks and Three Bears or The Three Little Pigs while learning a new language. With Stories, children will start learning Spanish vocabulary and develop basic Spanish grammar skills using easy-to-understand sentences. Download Gus on Go in the iTunes App Store. 2. Duolingo With Duolingo children can explore and learn a variety of languages, from Spanish and French to Russian and Vietnamese. While using the app, kids will earn points for correct answers and race against the clock to level up. The lessons were divided into bite-sized but effective pieces. I am a college student considering Spanish. This is a great app for refreshing or learning basic vocabulary. I think the problem with most other applications that try to teach you Spanish is that they teach by translated from Spanish, eg libro = book. What I like about this app is that it just shows you an image of el libro so that you link the Spanish vocabulary to the subject or the word rather than the English translation. On top of that, the game is quite fun - can be repetitive as it all involves combining flash cards, but the new vocab at each level makes it see new. The only thing is that the sound does not work unless I use headphones. I use a Bluetooth ear phone, so I'll need it's out with regular plug-ins. I give this app five stars because they allow you to try a few levels before you really commit and for the simple fact you can turn off the soundtrack. I have other Spanish learning apps for my 3-year-old twins that are also good, but have a focused soundtrack. As for other aspects of this app, it has great flash cards for each level and the games are fascinating. It's just the right level of learning for young children... not difficult they do not get the concept, not so easy they lose interest. It has all the starting vocabulary you need for a kindergarten child. I looked through a lot of apps before I went with this one and you get a lot of bang for your buck. I have an app I spent more than double the amount and my twins just don't seem to be picking up vocabulary. In my opinion it was just to distract and busy ... instead of learning the words that they all want to do is push small blocks around the screen and with music in the background I don't feel they've really focused on the actual word being pronounced. I know this review is a bit long but I know I rely on other people's opinions to help me decide before I buy. So hopefully this will help. I speak Fluent Spanish and it is very important to me that my child learns languages for family and future purposes. Since they will learn English since growing up in the US, I don't want them to spend too much time on English activities, especially on electronics. Usually times I don't feel the language app is authentic enough and Spanish doesn't seem native. This app is great! The design, content and variety are all impressive. I like that they offer flash cards (electronic and printable), songs with music videos, and great pictures! They did their research and found very effective ways in e-teaching! My two-year-old (nearly three) flew over the demo in less than a week and so I decided to buy the full version (my first time doing so for my kids). This app is a STEAL for what it teaches early learns. My American husband is getting a kick out of it as well!
